Montgomery

Many people think there is no better red flowering Astilbe than 'Fanal', but we think that 'Montgomery' is far superior. Its deep red flower color in early June is richer and more vibrant than 'Fanal', but that's only the start of what makes this plant stand out. Its foliage is incredible! It emerges from the ground bronzy red in the early spring and, even as it matures to a deep, lustrous green as the spring progresses, it retains an infusion of red color that makes it jump at you from the landscape and enhances its red flower color. It's a perfect plant for partial shade and moist, well-drained soil and is a knockout when planted in groups. Watch for even more color as the hummingbirds make a bee-line to the open flowers!

Visions in White

The shaded woodland garden is one of the toughest spots in the landscape to find plants that will thrive but, Visions in White Astilbe is the perfect summer blooming perennial for such a site. Striking bright white plumes rise above a mound of glossy, deeply cut, almost fern-like foliage in early June and continue to shine in these dark landscape spots right through early July. While its compact, clump forming foliage adds great texture to the partially shaded garden both before and after the flowers, it's really those fat triangle of pure white that will really grab your attention. Thriving in moist, organic soils, 'Visions in White' is deer resistant and butterflies will flock to its pure, bright plumes as much as you will! Plant it in groups for a stunning show or use it in a mixed perennial container for a semi-shaded deck or patio where its bloom and texture will shine!

ASTILBE CHINENSIS

1001566

Broad leaves with deep cuts are what make this variety different from the others. Not to mention the incredibly bright lilac-purple flowers that bloom all summer. A shorter, more compact form allows for 'Visions' to be planted anywhere you have a shady gap to fill. Blooms July-August.

Lavender Ice

This selection from Plant Select has been catching the eyes of gardeners everywhere with its fantastic, irridescent lavender flower color, a breakthrough that will add a splash of WOW to your landscape. 'Lavender Ice' forms a super low carpet of fleshy, succulent, evergreen leaves on prostrate stems that load up with buds in late May. These buds open soon after to reveal these fantastically colored, daisy-like flowers that will almost completely cover the plant. It will thrill you with its long bloom period that lasts from early June through August and its ability to grow in the driest of soils once established. It's a great choice for hot dry areas or rock gardens where it can trail aggressively among the stones to form a fleshy carpet that is alive with drought resistant color. Plant this butterfly attracting, easy to grow beauty in full sun in a spot that will not allow wet feet in the winter or even try it in a mixed container where it can trail over the sides for a color spilling summer thrill!

Camelot
Lavender

Any digitalis can be breathtaking but 'Camelot Lavender' is part of a new generation of Digitalis that has so many garden advantages that it may make all other selections obsolete. The Camelot series features plants that display great uniformity in the garden with consistent, spectacular flowering in the first and second season in the garden, something that can be hit or miss in other selections. Deep green, heavily corrugated foliage emerges in the spring to form a basal mound from which a flower stalk rises starting in late May. Buds and open in June to reveal tubular, deep lavender individual flowers with speckled throats. What makes these flowers even more spectacular is that, unlike most other Digitalis, the flowers are held horizontal on the stalk making for spectacular viewing. You'll love the show as will the local hummingbirds and it is a perfect plant for livening up a partial shade garden with show stopping color through the end of July.

1010862

DIGITALIS PURPUREA

Talk about a spring and summer thriller, this selection's basal mound thick, large green leaves gives rise to strong, tall flower stalks bearing beefy buds in early June. The flowers open to form a massive column of light peachy colored flowers each with darker peach spotted throats. Purple

Get ready to be dazzled by this stunning perennial Foxglove that blooms early and often and won't keep you waiting forever for bloom like some other perennial Foxgloves can. Large, thick, almost felt-like oblong leaves form a fat basal mound of foliage by mid spring. Arising from this mound in late May are thick, substantial flower stalks that are loaded with blunt, fat buds. These buds open in mid June to show off deep lavender-purple flowers with heavily spotted maroon throats that are nothing less than breathtaking. One of the great things about 'Dalmation Purple' is the profuseness of its bloom...it really packs the big blossoms in on its flower stalks and distributes them completely around the stem making them look even more showy. This selection will be a blooming thriller in the garden into July and is a perfect early to mid summer focal point plant for the middle or back of your garden. It loves full sun or partial sun and will thrive in a well drained soil area.

SEDUM HYBRID ROCK 'N GROW

Diversify your fall Sedum varieties with this unique yellow flowered selection. Unlike most autumn stonecrops which have pink flowers, 'Lemonjade' bears large 5-7" panicles of bright citron yellow flowers which completely cover the top of the foliage in early fall. As the cold weather sets in, the seed heads take on rosy peach tones. This is a compact selection with a stocky, upright mounded habit. It does not split open when it blooms like so many older Sedums do. Its grey-green, toothed foliage remains clean all season long.

Outstanding form and foliage are the calling card of this shade loving perennial. It's a beauty that forms a tight, rounded mound made up of deeply scalloped foliage that features a deep burgundy leaf center surrounded by bright green on the rest of the leaf. The result is very showy especially in early May when short spike rise above the foliage bearing clouds of creamy white mini bell flowers that persist into early summer.

TIARELLA CORD.

'Running Tapestry' may be a tough, easy care plant but this aggressively growing groundcover also brings a beautiful, refined look to a shaded or partially shaded area. Heart shaped foliage crowds onto dense, short, spreading plants carrying a pleasing green color, offset by speckled red veining and a red central leaf area. This foliage forms a dense carpet that gives rise to numerous flower stalks that carry profuse, small, white blooms above the plant from late April into June. These flowers are an abundant nectar source for beneficial native bees and insects while providing instant light to a landscape's darker spots. Plant 'Running Tapestry' in groups and enjoy the foliage and flower show.

Annabelle

It's all about the flowers with this stunning performer. Mammoth blooms of up to one foot in diameter last from June to September and actually get larger as the season progresses on this old fashioned, durable favorite. 'Annabelle' was discovered in one lucky garden in Anna, Illinois, and for flower size, duration and durability this arborescens eclipses all others. In fact, the blooms are so colossal that the stems may not always be up to the task of supporting them so it's best to plant 'Annabelle' en masse for support or to add a support cage and to prune less vigorously to encourage stronger stems. 'Annabelle' thrives in almost any well-drained garden soil and will grow and flower well in full sun with plenty of moisture or partial shade. Make sure you cut some blooms for drying, too!

HYDRANGEA ARBORESCENS INVINCIBELLE

Invincibelle Limetta® hydrangea is the easy way to experience refreshing summer color every year. It's as reliable as the classic 'Annabelle,' but offers big-time improvements, like strong stems that hold the blooms upright all season, and a dwarf, rounded habit that makes it perfect to plant anywhere, from foundations to flower gardens. In early summer, spheres of lime green flowers appear. They lighten to a soft green-white before turning jade green for the rest of the season. They last clear through frost for a persistent show that takes practically no effort on your part – they are great for both fresh and dried cut flowers.

Little Devil

The genus of Physocarpus contains some of the easiest to grow shrubs you can put in your landscape. They are nearly carefree, with colorful foliage, great bloom and tolerance for almost any poor, rocky, dry soil you can send their way. Unfortunately, they have always been big plants that take up a lot of room, room that is, many times, hard to find in smaller suburban landscapes. Little Devil™ changes all of that with a tight, rounded, compact form and size that gives you all those great Physocarpus traits in miniature. Little Devil™ loses none of the hardiness of its bigger relatives and possibly even enhances its colorful foliage trait with dark red to maroon foliage that holds its great hue spring through fall. It is also a strong bloomer small pink to white blooms that arrange themselves in small, circular domes of color along its many stems in late May through mid June. Grow Little Devil™ in a sunny location with well drained soil and get ready to enjoy the show, even in small landscape spots!

It's the next big thing for Bloomerang! Dark Purple is a bigger plant with larger, more rounded inflorescences. It's very showy in spring, and continues to amaze with fragrant blooms from mid-summer to frost. This is a strong grower, and will add beauty and fragrance to gardens from spring to fall. Perfect as a stand alone specimen or stunning when grouped to form a border planting, this selection is a butterfly magnet and is deer resistant. A light trim directly after spring bloom will greatly enhance this plant's summer and fall blooming prowess.

SYRINGA X BLOOMERANG

1009985

Bloomerang® Dwarf Pink lilac naturally grows as a small, rounded shrub, at just about a third the size of conventional lilacs. It outperforms other lilacs with its pure pink blooms that cover the plant in late spring, then reappear throughout summer and fall. Dwarf Pink offers a lot of versatility in the landscape. Plant it lining a walkway, under windows, as a low hedge, or anywhere you want color and fragrance with minimal care. Plus, it's vigorous and resistant to disease. Just plant it in full sun, soil that's not too wet, and enjoy the show for years to come.

SYRINGA X BLOOMERANG

There hasn't been this much buzz about a plant in years! People have been clamoring for a reblooming Lilac for years and Proven Winners®/Color Choice® delivers with 'Bloomerang'™, a dense, compact plant with an intense mid May bloom followed by more deliciously fragrant bloom cones throughout the summer and fall. Its May bloom is enough to cover the plant with upright clusters of purple to pink flowers and produce a sweetly fragrant calling card that will entice you into the garden. 'Bloomerang'™ then catches its breath only to start its flowering journey again as early summer progresses. It's a one-of-a-kind plant that is so easy to grow and has so many uses. It fits in most small space gardens because of its dense, compact form and loves to grow in any full sun location with moist, well drained soil. While it is perfect for a colorful specimen, consider using 'Bloomerang'™ grouped to form a fragrant constantly coloring border planting that will be the envy of your neighborhood!

Double Blue

There are about 15 different species of lilacs found in nature, and Syringa hyacinthiflora is the queen of them all when it comes to fragrance. And that's what makes Scentara® Double Blue the most fragrant Proven Winners lilac yet! The cool purple blooms take on a blue tone in the spring sunshine, each one full of petals for a delicate seashell-like effect. This very heavy bloomer exhibits excellent disease resistant and a handsome, appealing shape that will look right at home in your landscape. Available in better garden centers in 2019.

Purple Glory

Get ready for the Lilac that doesn't keep you waiting for a Lilac show in your yard. That's right, like all the other Hyacinthiflora selections, 'Purple Glory' is a rambunctious bloomer giving you loads of sweet bloom even when the plants are very young. Not only is this selection incredibly dependable and floriferous, it's also a stunner sporting big cones of bluish-purple, fragrant flowers that will fill your landscape with their heavenly aroma. Its mid May bloom will be a singular event in your yard or in your house since its fragrant bloom makes an outstanding cut flower for a vase. Plant 'Purple Glory' in half to full day sun and give it some room to grow to become a spring signature in your landscape.

VIBURNUM

Heavenly flower fragrance makes this variety one of the most sought after viburnums. Bunches of deep pink buds open to mini-snowballs of creamy white flowers in late April. Leathery, deep green foliage turns wine-red in autumn. A real landscape gem.
