

Perennials

Actaea 'Hillside Black Beauty'
Hillside Black Beauty Snakeroot
1002758

Zone: 4
Height: 4-5 ft
Spread: 2-3 ft
Exposure: Full Shade

Intriguing, nearly black, deep purple foliage along with a statuesque garden form make this a plant that demands attention. It keeps its great color all year on deeply cut, almost frilly foliage that gives the plant an airy, fine texture that is very effective grouped at the back of any partially to fully shaded garden. Its foliage provides outstanding contrast to long spikes of pure white, fragrant flowers that bloom from late August through September.

Ajuga Black Scallop

This peony is a robust, larger growing plant with multiple tightly grouped stems, each of which is topped by a big, round, fat flower bud by mid-May. Bud opening in late May unfurls an incredible array of bright watermelon colored petals that are packed together to form one of the biggest double flowers you'll ever see in the garden. Plant 'Kansas' in full sun or partial shade in moist, well-drained soil and provide plant support so those huge blooms won't flop when open.

Paeonia Sarah Bernhardt

Sarah Bernhardt Peony

1003961

Zone: 3

Height: 30-36 in

Spread: 18-24 in

Exposure: Full Sun

Captivating scent and huge flowers will have you screaming for more the first time you see this selection in bloom. 'Sarah Bernhardt' is tall growing with tightly grouped stems that each carry a big, round bulky bud by mid-May. Buds open in late May to huge, very double rose-pink flowers that are as fragrant as they are showy. Place it in full sun or partial shade in moist, well-drained soil and be sure to provide support to the plant to keep those mammoth flowers upright and looking their best.

Elie

Monsieur Jules Elie Peony

1004483

Zone: 3

Height: 30-36 in

Spread: 30-36 in

Exposure: Full Sun

Likely to flourish and deliver his showy, fragrant bloom through a century of springs, 'Monsieur Jules Elie' will delight you with its 'bomb' type flowers that consist of a number of wide, rosy-red petals overlapping and ringing a center mound of lighter rosy-red, filigree type petals creating a subtly two-toned flower with sheens of glistening silver.

Panicum virgatum Ruby Ribbons™

Ruby Ribbons™ Switch Grass

1003430

Zone: 4

Height: 4-5 ft

Spread: 2-3 ft

Exposure: Full Sun

As the cooler weather of fall approaches, so does the red color with the foliage getting so infused with red, you might think you are looking at Pennisetum rubrum from a distance. It is incredibly darker than 'Shenandoah' and perfect for putting on a late summer and fall show of red that will have you riveted. Plant Ruby Ribbons™ in a sunny spot in any well-drained soil and it will thrive. Plant it in groups to create colorful sweeps in the garden that will take your breath away.

Papaver orientale Royal Wedding Royal Wedding Poppy 1002201

Zone: 3

Height: 30-36 in

Spread: 20-24 in

Exposure: Full Sun

Charming perennial prized for its large, satiny, pure white blooms with black spots. Divide in fall every 3-5 years. Summer dormancy. Rounded growth habit. Prefers a well drained, loamy soil in full sun. Dies back after flowering so interplant with other perennials.

Phlox Volcano® Red Volcano® Red Garden Phlox 1007469

Zone: 4

Height: 18-24 in

Spread: 15-18 in

Exposure: Full Sun

You won't find another red Phlox that performs better than Volcano® Red with its incredible blooming power that sees cones of scintillating red flowers begin to open in early July and continue into September. Compact, chunky plants are sturdy, the foliage is deep green and highly mildew tolerant, and the flowers are incredibly fragrant. What else do you need in a garden Phlox?

Phlox Volcano® Ruby Volcano® Ruby Garden Phlox 1007472

Zone: 4

Height: 18-24 in

Spread: 15-18 in

Exposure: Full Sun/Partial Shade

This Volcano, like all previous varieties, offers the same great compact growth habit, fragrance, long bloom and extreme tolerance for the powdery mildew that plagues most phlox. Because it's lower growing and compact, it won't flop when in bloom or after it rains, meaning it is a low maintenance star. Plant 'Volcano Ruby' in full sun to partial shade in fairly fertile, moist, well-drained soil, then stand back and enjoy the show.

Phlox x 'Violet Pinwheels'

Violet Pinwheels Creeping Phlox

1008882

Zone: 4

Height: 4-5 in

Spread: 24-36 in

Exposure: Full Sun

This brilliant new creeping Phlox is a hybrid that behaves like a Phlox subulata, but with a much more intense flower color that you'd expect. Violet purple flowers are aglow from mid to late spring, and the notched, upturned petals look like tiny pinwheels, especially with movement from the wind. 'Violet Pinwheels' grows more closely to the ground, and spreads more slowly than other varieties.

Platycodon grandiflorus 'Astra White'

Astra White Balloon Flower

1015400

Zone: 4

Height: 8-10 in

Spread: 8-10 in

Exposure: Full Sun

An abundance of inflated, balloon-like buds open to stark-white, star-shaped flowers in summer. Its dainty, compact habit lends itself well to patio containers, window boxes, or the front of sunny borders.

A great new plant to provide color throughout the growing season with beautiful, dark burgundy foliage and an abundant display of reddish pink flowers that any hummingbird will love!! Foliage color intensifies as autumn approaches!

Wisteria macro. Blue Moon

Blue Moon Wisteria

1004450

Zone: 3

Height: 15-25 ft

Spread: 5-10 ft

Exposure: Full Sun

A heavy arbor will allow this plant to thrive and do what it loves to do: grow and produce spectacular, 8-10" long racemes of lavender-blue flowers in late May that may repeat during the summer months. Its flower display is breathtaking, fragrant and attractive to any number of native insects and butterflies looking to fill up on nectar. 'Blue Moon' loves full sun and will flower its best in that environment but it will tolerate less sun and still grow well.

Roses

Rosa Campfire
Campfire Rose

Zone: 4
Height: 3-4 ft
Spread: 3-4 ft
Exposure: Full Sun

'Double Pink Knockout' is a prolific bloomer with loads of flower buds rising above its dense, compact form and deep green foliage. From May to October and opening to the sweetest double hot pink, 3" diameter flowers you'll ever see! It's a dream garden plant for your landscape because of the color but also because it is so carefree, so disease resistant that you'll want to mass them in any sunny spot you can find!

Rosa rugosa Lotty's Love™
Lotty's Love™ Rose
1010291

Zone: 3
Height: 3-4 ft
Spread: 3-4 ft
Exposure: Full Sun

This rose is a hybrid Rugosa with a strong cinnamon fragrance emanating from its large semi double 4-5" flowers that bloom through the season. The color of this rose has been described as mauve or beetroot purple, suffused with magenta as each flower matures. The eye is streaked with white and it boasts golden yellow stamens that contrast nicely with the petals. Like the species the foliage is a dark green and glossy, it's resistant to the common fungal diseases and it has a nice upright and bushy habit. Own root.

Trees

Acer rubrum Autumn Flame
Autumn Flame Red Maple
1011832

Zone: 3

Height: 45-50 ft

Spread: 35-40 ft

Exposure: Full Sun/Partial Sun

Incredibly easy to grow, 'Autumn Flame' is an outstanding looking tree with a clean summer look and blazing fall foliage color that make it a plant that should be used even more. This is one of the earliest flowering of all our native maples with its small, deep red flowers opening in early to mid-April providing one of the earliest nectar sources for native bees and butterflies.

Acer saccharum
Sugar Maple
1003283

Zone: 4

Height: 60-70 ft

Spread: 50-60 ft

Exposure: Full Sun/Partial Sun

It's easy to see why this tree is so prized once you look at its broadly oval to round form and its thick but not impenetrable canopy of dark green, trident shaped leaves that provide medium shade from the summer's heat. Of course, the biggest show for us humans comes when, as September cools, this plant's foliage explodes into a mixture of yellow, orange, and red that always keeps those leaf peepers coming back for more!

Acer rubrum 'Armstrong'
Columnar Red Maple
1014627

Zone: 3

Height: 50-60 ft

Spread: 15-25 ft

Exposure: Full Sun/Partial Sun

'Armstrong' displays bright green leaves during the summer before shifting to reddish burgundy leaves in the autumn. Once the leaves fall, the silver-grey bark is more easily seen providing the garden with winter appeal. Reaching heights of 60', this fast growing deciduous tree grows in an upright, columnar form providing shade without taking up too much space.

Cercis canadensis Northern

Herald®

Northern Herald® Eastern Redbud

1012808

Zone: 3

Height: 15-20 ft

Spread: 15-20 ft

Exposure: Full Sun/Partial Sun

A profusion of bright pink flowers blooms in mass outlining the rounded form. Excellent landscape performance and extremely hardy. Dark green, leathery leaves are heat resistant and wind tolerant. Foliage is colorful throughout the growing season making this an outstanding specimen tree. Bloom attracts butterflies and birds love this plant's shelter.

Malus Red Splendor

Red Splendor Crab Apple
